Background Information

The original photo was taken on January 15, 2015, looking north from in front of 566 Putting Green Lane, Oxford, CT. Its purpose was to document the height of the weather balloons that CPV had flown that day to simulate the height of the proposed smokestacks. The original photo was taken at approximately 11:00 A.M.

The smokestacks and their plumes were taken from a photograph of the CPV plant in Athens, NY that was obtained through the internet. Since the Athens plant has three smokestacks, one stack was edited out and the plume was reduced by one third in order to more closely simulate the plume from the proposed two-stack plant in Oxford.

Great care was taken to match the height of the superimposed smokestacks in this image with height of the two balloons flown over the CPV site on January 15th. The stacks in the photo are not intended to represent the full 150 feet height of the proposed plant. Rather, it appears that the lower part of the smokestacks would be hidden by trees. The two images were composited in Photoshop.
