FREEDOM OF INFORMATION COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF CONNECTICUT

In The Matter of a Complaint by

Report of Hearing Officer

David Cutler,

Complainant

against

Docket #FIC 2013-049

Attorney General, State of Connecticut,
Office of the Attorney General; and State of Connecticut, Office of the Attorney General,

Respondents

August 28, 2013

The above-captioned matter was heard as a contested case on August 8, 2013, at which time the complainant and the respondents appeared, stipulated to certain facts and presented testimony, exhibits and argument on the complaint. By motion dated July 11, 2013, Colleen Valentine, an Assistant Attorney General, and the subject of the requested records, moved without objection to intervene in this case as a party respondent. By order dated July 15, 2013, Attorney Valentine's motion was granted.

After consideration of the entire record, the following facts are found and conclusions of law are reached:

1. The respondents are public agencies within the meaning of §1-200(1), G.S.
2. It is found that, by letter dated January 9, 2013, the complainant made a request for copies of the following records: the Office of the Attorney General's investigation into "Attorney Valentine's actions."
3. It is found that, by letter dated January 15, 2013, the respondents acknowledged the complainant's request. It is further found that, in their acknowledgement, the respondents informed the complainant that they were in the process of reviewing documentation which may be responsive to the request to determine whether any exemptions to disclosure may apply to these records. It is further found that the respondents informed the complainant that, once their review was complete, they would notify the complainant.

4. It is found that, by letter dated February 1, 2013, the respondents informed the complainant that their review of the requested records revealed that disclosure of the records might constitute an invasion of Assistant Attorney General Valentine's personal privacy. It is further found that the respondents informed the complainant that Assistant Attorney General Valentine had objected to the disclosure of the requested records.

5. By letter dated January 28, 2013 and filed February 1, 2013, the complainant appealed to this Commission, alleging that the respondents violated the Freedom of Information ("FOI") Act by denying his request for a copy of the records described in paragraph 2, above.

6. Section 1-200(5), G.S., provides:

"Public records or files" means any recorded data or information relating to the conduct of the public's business prepared, owned, used, received or retained by a public agency, or to which a public agency is entitled to receive a copy by law or contract under section 1-218, whether such data or information be handwritten, typed, tape-recorded, printed, photostated, photographed or recorded by any other method.

7. Section 1-210(a), G.S., provides in relevant part that:

Except as otherwise provided by any federal law or state statute, all records maintained or kept on file by any public agency, whether or not such records are required by any law or by any rule or regulation, shall be public records and every person shall have the right to (1) inspect such records promptly during regular office or business hours, (2) copy such records in accordance with subsection (g) of section 1-212, or (3) receive a copy of such records in accordance with section 1-212. (Emphasis supplied).

8. Section 1-212(a), G.S., provides in relevant part that "[a]ny person applying in writing shall receive, promptly upon request, a plain, facsimile, electronic or certified copy of any public record."

9. It is found that the respondents maintain the records described in paragraph 2, above, and it is therefore concluded that such records are "public records" and must be disclosed in accordance with §§1-210(a) and 1-212(a), G.S., unless they are exempt from disclosure.

10. At the hearing on this matter, the respondents contended that the records at issue are a personnel or similar file within the meaning of §1-210(b)(2), G.S., and that disclosure of the records would constitute an invasion of Attorney Valentine's personal privacy.

11. Section 1-210(b)(2), G.S., provides in relevant part that nothing in the FOI Act shall require disclosure of “. . . personnel or medical files and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute an invasion of personal privacy”

12. The Supreme Court set forth the test for the exemption contained in §1-210(b)(2), G.S., in Perkins v. Freedom of Information Commission, 228 Conn. 158, 175 (1993). The claimant must first establish that the files in question are personnel, medical or similar files. Second, the claimant must show that disclosure of the records would constitute an invasion of personal privacy. In determining whether disclosure would constitute an invasion of personal privacy, the claimant must establish both of two elements: first, that the information sought does not pertain to legitimate matters of public concern, and second, that such information is highly offensive to a reasonable person. The Commission takes administrative notice of the multitude of court rulings, Commission final decisions (Endnote 1), and instances of advice given by the Commission and staff members (Endnote 2), which have relied upon the Perkins test, since its release in 1993.

13. Section 1-214, G.S., provides in relevant part that:

(b) Whenever a public agency receives a request to inspect or copy records contained in any of its employees' personnel or medical files and similar files and the agency reasonably believes that the disclosure of such records would legally constitute an invasion of privacy, the agency shall immediately notify in writing (1) each employee concerned, provided such notice shall not be required to be in writing where impractical due to the large number of employees concerned and (2) the collective bargaining representative, if any, of each employee concerned. Nothing herein shall require an agency to withhold from disclosure the contents of personnel or medical files and similar files when it does not reasonably believe that such disclosure would legally constitute an invasion of personal privacy.

(c) A public agency which has provided notice under subsection (b) of this section shall disclose the records requested unless it receives a written objection from the employee concerned or the employee's collective bargaining representative, if any, within seven business days from the receipt by the employee or such collective bargaining representative of the notice or, if there is no evidence of receipt of written notice, not later than nine business days from the date the notice is actually mailed, sent, posted or otherwise given. Each objection filed under this subsection shall be on a form prescribed by the public agency, which shall consist of a statement to be signed by the employee or the employee's collective bargaining representative, under the penalties of false statement, that to the best of his knowledge, information and belief there is good ground to support it and that the objection is not interposed for delay. Upon the filing of an objection as provided in this subsection, the agency shall not disclose the requested records unless ordered to do so by the Freedom of Information Commission pursuant to section 1-206.

14. It is found that the respondents timely notified Assistant Attorney General Valentine of the request for records in this case, and that Assistant Attorney General Valentine timely filed an objection to the disclosure of the records, within the meaning of §1-214, G.S.

15. It is found that the records at issue constitute a "personnel" or "similar" file within the meaning of §1-210(b)(2), G.S.

16. Following the contested case hearing, the respondents submitted the records at issue to Commission for an in camera inspection. The in camera records can be described as follows: one six-page memorandum and one two-page letter.

17. Upon careful review of the in camera records, it is found that the main focus of the in camera records concerns a very personal, family matter directly involving Assistant Attorney General Valentine.

18. Specifically, based on the evidence produced at the contested case hearing, it is found that, on September 21, 2011, Assistant Attorney General Valentine's mother passed away. It is further found that the complainant, who referred to himself at the contested case hearing as Assistant Attorney General Valentine's step-father, had lived with Assistant Attorney General Valentine's mother for twenty years without the benefit of marriage. It is further found that the passing of her mother was an extremely difficult time for Assistant Attorney General Valentine.

19. It is found that this sad event was unfortunately followed by the filing of a civil action against Assistant Attorney General Valentine, an acrimonious probate matter, multiple matters requiring police involvement, the issuance of protective orders to keep Assistant Attorney General Valentine safe, as well as the filing of multiple complaints against Assistant Attorney General Valentine both with her employer and with the Connecticut Statewide Grievance Committee. It is found that all of these events involved the complainant either directly or indirectly as a party adverse to Assistant Attorney General Valentine. It is further found that all of these filings and complaints were lodged against Assistant Attorney General Valentine after a probate magistrate had issued a written recommendation concerning the ownership of real property in Assistant Attorney General Valentine's mother's estate. It is found that the probate magistrate recommended that the probate matters be decided in Assistant Attorney General Valentine's favor. It is further found that that the probate court adopted the probate magistrate's written recommendation.

20. With regard to the complaints filed against Assistant Attorney General Valentine with her employer, it is found that the Office of the Attorney General conducted an investigation into all the allegations contained therein.

21. It is found that none of the allegations contained in any of the complaints and other filings lodged against Attorney Valentine were ever substantiated.

22. It is found that the in camera records discuss in a detailed manner a difficult, personal loss, and the ensuing complicated family matters that followed such loss, in the context of also discussing a determination that the multiple complaints filed against Assistant Attorney General Valentine with her employer after the issuance of the probate magistrate's written recommendation were unsubstantiated. It is found that the disclosure of the in camera records would only serve to revive (and perhaps reinvigorate) private, family matters in a very public way. It is found that there is no legitimate public interest in the disclosure of the in camera records. It is further found that the disclosure of the in camera records would be highly offensive to a reasonable person. See Perkins, 228 Conn. at 172-73 ("Every individual has some phases of his life and his activities. . . that he does not expose to the public eye, but keeps entirely to himself or at most reveals only to his family or close personal friends. Sexual relations, for example, are normally entirely private matters, as are family quarrels. . . . When these intimate details of his life are spread before the public gaze in a manner highly offensive to the ordinary reasonable man, there is an actionable invasion of his privacy, unless the matter is one of legitimate public concern.") (Quotation omitted).

23. It is concluded, therefore, that disclosure of the in camera records would constitute an invasion of privacy within the meaning of §1-210(b)(2), G.S., and that such provision permissibly exempts the in camera records from mandatory disclosure. It is further concluded that that the respondents did not violate the disclosure provisions of §§1-210(a) and 1-212(a), G.S., by denying the complainant's request for copies of the in camera records.

The following order by the Commission is hereby recommended on the basis of the record concerning the above-captioned complaint.

1. The complaint is dismissed.

2. ENDNOTES

AFFIDAVIT OF ERIC V. TURNER

Eric V. Turner, having been duly sworn, does hereby depose as follows:

1. I am over the age of eighteen (18) years and understand the obligation of an affirmation.
2. I am a member of the Connecticut Bar and am currently employed as Director of Public Education for the Connecticut Freedom of Information Commission, having first been employed by said commission in 1996.

3. I am providing this affidavit in light of the Supreme Court decision in Director, Retirement & Benefits Services Division v. Freedom of Information Commission, 256 Conn. 764 (2001), in which the court apparently invites a reconsideration of Perkins v. Freedom of Information Commission, 228 Conn. 158 (1993). See, Director, supra at 782, fn 13, 785 (Zarella, J. concurring).
4. As part of my responsibilities as Director of Public Education for said commission, I have developed, organized and scheduled speaking engagements, seminars and programs explaining the duties and rights established under the Connecticut Freedom of Information Act.
5. Since I assumed my current position in 1996, there have been approximately 290 such speaking engagements, seminars and programs in Connecticut and I have personally lectured in approximately 80 such speaking engagements, seminars and programs.
6. As part of the presentation I have prepared for such speaking engagements, seminars and programs, the subject of the Connecticut General Statutes Section 1-210(b)(2) exemption for personnel, medical and similar files the disclosure of which would constitute an invasion of personal privacy is stressed because of the great interest in that exemption and the confusion generated by a series of inconsistent and contradictory court decisions prior to Perkins, supra. See, e.g., Chairman v. Freedom of Information Commission, 217 Conn. 193 (1991) (establishing “reasonable expectation of privacy” test; query whether subjectively or objectively applied) and Board of Education v. Freedom of Information Commission, 210 Conn. 590 (1989) (confirming a “balancing” test), which was overruled by the Chairman case.
7. Since the Supreme Court ruling in Perkins, supra, all Freedom of Information Commission staff members who conduct such speaking engagements, seminars and programs discuss in detail the rulings in that case and its progeny.
8. As part of my responsibilities as Director of Public Education, I also answer telephone and other inquiries from public officials and the public. Since my employment with said commission, I have answered thousands of such inquiries, including hundreds of inquiries concerning the Connecticut General Statutes Section 1-210(b)(2) exemption. In responding to such inquiries I discuss in detail the Perkins case and its progeny.
9. Based on the foregoing experiences, it is my opinion that the Perkins decision, and its progeny, have had a beneficial effect on public officials and the public itself because they can rely on a now long-standing and clear test with respect to the Connecticut General Statutes Section 1-210(b)(2) exemption, which helps them determine whether that exemption is applicable to the practical problems they encounter with respect to personnel, medical and similar information. Indeed, the many court and Freedom of Information Commission decisions applying the Perkins test have given public officials and the public a now consistent body of law concerning that statutory exemption.
