(HARTFORD, CT) - November 12, 2013 -- Want to explore the many great opportunities for your child's education within the Greater Hartford region? Want to speak with staff and families that work or attend a magnet school and the Hartford Region Open Choice Program? Bring the family to the first of five Regional School Choice Fairs on Saturday, November 16, 2013 from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. at A.I. Prince Technical High School, 401 Flatbush Avenue in Hartford.

The Regional School Choice Office (RSCO) school fairs feature booths and information about the wide array of programming options available to Hartford and suburban students ages preschool to grade 12.

Parents, grandparents, guardians and students can speak with helpful staff from RSCO and its partners, the Capitol Region Education Council, Hartford Public Schools' Host Magnet Program, Hartford Region Open Choice districts, Goodwin College, the Connecticut technical high school system, Suffield's Regional Agriscience Center, Bloomfield Public Schools and East Hartford Public Schools.

"Our goal is to provide information and improve access for students throughout the region who choose to apply to public schools outside of their community, thus enabling families to make fully informed decisions," said Glen Peterson, RSCO's Division Director. "Through our five open houses held between November and February, families can learn about the many schools and specialized programs in our region that emphasize exciting educational themes such as science, technology, math, engineering, arts and culture, environmental studies, global studies and social justice."
