What's New

Extension Until March 31, 2023 for Return and Amended Return File Specification Changes

The new fields that were added to the Return and Amended Return file specifications will remain optional until March 31, 2023. Any file submitted after March 31, 2023 will need to have the new fields included.

The bold fields described below will be optional until April 1, 2023.

- Reporting Quarter and Reporting Year will help us identify which quarter the payment you are remitting should be attributed to since we acknowledge that not all pay cycles fit precisely into a calendar quarter.
- Designating whether the payment is for the Full Quarter will aid in confirming whether you are paid in full for the quarter.
- The CT Paid Leave Authority compares the Subject Earnings and CT Employee Count included in a contribution to the CT Gross Wages and CT Gross Wages Employee Count reported to DOL and DRS to validate the contributions being reported to the Connecticut Paid Leave (CTPL) program.

Refer to the Developing your Amended Return file section for more details.

Amended Return Definition

If there is a need to change data that was reported in the return file, this can be handled through the amended returns process. For example, if you initially reported $20,000.00 in contributions due, then realized you should have reported $21,000.00, you can file an amended return.

Changes which can be accommodated through the SFTP/batch file process

- Changes to employee data
- Changes to reported wages
- Changes to contribution amount

Changes which cannot be accommodated through the SFTP/batch file process

- Changes to dates, including:
Note: The only exception to this would be if the Return has a Null value, but the Amended Return does not.
  - Tax Period Start Date
  - Tax Period End Date
  - Reporting Quarter
  - Reporting Year
  - Full Quarter Contribution
- Changes to TPA or Employer FEINs

Developing your Amended Return file

Your amended return file follows the same XML schema as your return file. Please refer to the File Specification Toolkit for detailed guidance, if needed.

To ensure a successful submission, there are a few key items on your amended return file that should be reviewed.

File Size: As with Return files, Amended Return files must be 10 MB or under.

Amended Return File Name Format: The ART mnemonic indicates an amended return file, by using the existing file format. Any file ending in `_test` or `_TEST` will allow you to submit a test file for validation purposes only, where an acknowledgement file will be provided.

- Sample file naming convention: CTPL_ART_987654321_00_20210112152238.xml
- Sample test file naming convention: CTPL_ART_987654321_00_20210112152238_test.xml

Key fields:

- At the file level:
  - AmendedReturn
    - This is a Boolean field.
    - When you have filed a return and wish to amend it, you should set this field to TRUE.
  - TotalContributionsDue
    - This is the sum of the total contributions due for all employers referenced in the return.
    - Do not calculate the difference in what was originally reported and what is reflected in your system.
- At the employer level:
  - For the below fields, do not calculate the difference in what was originally reported and what is reflected in your system. Report the full value.
    - TotalContributionsDue
      - This is the total contributions due for the employer for the reported pay period.
    - TotalWagesThisPeriod
      - These are the total wages subject to CTPL contributions for the employer for the reported pay period.
    - CTGrossWages
      - These are the total CT gross wages for the employer for the reported pay period.
  - PaymentAmountTotal
    - This is the expected payment amount associated with the amended return.
    - If you report an increase in total contributions due for this employer, and you expect to make an additional payment to match this filing, you will report this here. For example, if you initially reported $1000.00 in contributions and you are now reporting $1200.00 in contributions for this pay period, you would indicate an expected payment of $200.00 here.
    - If you report a decrease in total contributions due for this employer, and you do not expect to submit a payment to match this filing, you will report $0.00. Though a refund may be due, our system will not accept negative values.
- At the employee level:
  - Updates made to the employee data should not include a calculation of differences in YearToDateWages, WagesThisQtr or PFMLContributionThisQtr fields. Please report the full amount you intended to report.
  - You can choose to exclude employees where the employee data has not changed from the original filing.

If there are any further questions on how to utilize these fields, please submit a customer support request using the CT Paid Leave contact us form located at <https://ctpaidleave.org/s/contactus>. Select "File Specification Questions" as the contact reason.

Common Error Codes

It is important to review your acknowledgement file to validate your submission status. When there is an issue with your Amended Return file, we will notify you with an error code in an acknowledgement file. Please refer to the File Specification Toolkit for detailed guidance or additional error codes, if needed.

Error Types:

- If you receive an ACK file where an error is located in the <tns:Acknowledgement></tns:Acknowledgement> tag, the entire file has been rejected for one of the reasons below. Please correct the file and resubmit.
- If you receive an ACK file where an error is located in the <tns:Employer></tns:Employer> tag, the file was accepted, but the amended return for this employer could not be accepted for one of the reasons below. Please correct the employer information and resubmit.
- E = If you receive an error, the submission was not accepted and will need to be reviewed before resubmitting.
- W = If you receive a warning, the submission was accepted, but the warning will give you information to resolve to prevent this issue on future amended returns.

XML: Sample amended return where an additional payment is expected

For this example, we will use the following scenario:

- Return File (Before Values): Originally, Acme Payroll files that Gadget Co had $1000.00 in total contributions due (with $1000.00 in expected payments), $200,000.00 in reported wages and $202,020.20 in gross wages for this time period.
- Amended Return File (After Values): Acme Payroll needs to correct Gadget Co to show that Gadget Co had $1500.00 in total contributions due (with $500.00 in expected payments to match this filing), $300,000.00 in reported wages and $303,030.30 in gross wages for this time period.

After creating your amended return file, key changes are noted in yellow when compared to your original return file. Note that there may be changes to other fields (such as employee wages) that are not reflected in the example below.

XML: Sample amended return where a refund may be due

For this example, we will use the following scenario:

- Return File (Before Values): Originally, Acme Payroll files that Gadget Co had $1000.00 in total contributions due (with $1000.00 in expected payments), $200,000.00 in reported wages and $202,020.20 in gross wages for this time period.
- Amended Return File (After Values): Acme Payroll needs to correct Gadget Co to show that Gadget Co had $750.00 in total contributions due (with no payment being made), $150,000.00 in reported wages and $153,200.55 in gross wages for this time period.

After creating your amended return file, key changes are noted in yellow when compared to your original return file. Note that there may be changes to other fields (such as employee wages) that are not reflected in the example below.

CSV: Sample amended return where an additional payment is expected

For this example, we will use the following scenario:

- Return File (Before Values): Originally, Acme Payroll files that Gadget Co had $1000.00 in total contributions due (with $1000.00 in expected payments), $200,000.00 in reported wages and $202,020.20 in gross wages for this time period.
- Amended Return File (After Values): Acme Payroll needs to correct Gadget Co to show that Gadget Co had $1500.00 in total contributions due (with $500.00 in expected payments to match this filing), $300,000.00 in reported wages and $303,030.30 in gross wages for this time period.

Submitting a CSV: The CT Paid Leave Authority provides the ability to use CSV files if XML files cannot be utilized. When processed in our system, CSV files will be converted into XML files, so it is critical to follow the correct format when submitting.

Brief CSV Guidance:

- The example below is shown vertically for ease of reading; however, this should be submitted horizontally.
- As noted in the File Specification Toolkit:
  - The header (yellow background) must remain the same throughout the CSV.
  - The fields in the green background must be repeated until a new employer is started.
- Please refer to the to the File Specification Toolkit for detailed guidance on submitting CSV files, if needed.

After creating your amended return file, key changes are noted in yellow when compared to your original return file. Note that there may be changes to other fields (such as employee wages) that are not reflected in the example below.

Refunds

The CT Paid Leave Authority will review amended return files which indicate an overpayment where a refund may be due. Refunds will not be issued automatically since returns might not be finalized and may require additional amendments. If returns are complete and you believe a refund is owed, please have the employer contact us and select “Employer Refund Request” as the Contact Reason. Please note that refunds cannot be applied to future payments and will be issued directly to employers. Employers will be able to track the status of their refunds in My Account.
